	Wales Integrated Women's and Young Adult's Commissioned Service Contract (south Wales and Gwent) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Nelson Trust: will deliver the One Women pathway to women at all stages of the Criminal Justice System and beyond. To aid this they will offer four women's centres in Cardiff, Swansea, Merthyr and Media Academy Cymru: the one young adult (YA) pathway will provide a suite of interventions and support bespoke to YA at risk or in contract with the justice system. St Giles Trust: the one young adult (YA) pathway will provide a suite of interventions and support bespoke to YA at risk or in contract with the justice system. Pact Visiting Mum's Service: the ONE Family pathway will identify women who require support to maintain family ties with their children through our ONE Family pathway. 	Co-commissioned		This is a holistic support service that assesses and addresses criminogenic needs identified as part of this assessment.		The women aspect of the service is a whole system approach working with women at each stage of the CJS including those at risk of offending and at risk of re-offending.
		• SW PCC			• Better emotional and physical health and wellbeing.	The EIS part of the service works with 18-25 within the pre-court (includes PSR stage).
		• Gwent PCC		The primary aim of the Services delivered is to reduce offending and reoffending in Wales by: Enabling women and young adults in Wales, to have opportunities, which empower them to live positive, crime free, independent, healthy lives.	• Strengthened positive relationships.
		• Welsh Government			• Enhanced life skills.
		• HMPPS	Quarterly contract management which feeds into a quarterly commissioning group	Women and young adults will benefit from a service that understands and can support the intersectionality between the different needs and characteristics they experience, particularly where they may have experienced racial trauma.	• Increased safety.
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Be the Change: will establish a 'Culturally Responsive Practice Lead' embedding leadership, cultural sensitivity, community engagement, and strategic planning across the service and wider system. 				By delivering the primary aim of the Services and achieving the Service User outcomes, the expectation is that the following associated and desired outcomes for children, victims, the wider community and public services shall also be realised: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Reduced incidence of Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs); Improved trauma informed responses to ACEs/ameliorating the impact of ACEs where they have occurred. Improved community cohesion and confidence. Reduced incidences of crime through reduced offending/reoffending. Reduced demand on services including health and policing.
	CLEAR: Change that Lasts Early Awareness Raising (CLEAR) is part of the Change that Lasts model and was developed by Respect in partnership with Welsh Women's Aid. CLEAR provides earlier intervention before behaviour escalates and harm increases, helping to raise awareness, support behaviour change and increase accountability. Men can self-referred or be referred in by professionals. Model includes Integrated Specialist Support Services for victims.	PCC (fund delivery in Cwm Taf Morganwg) and Cardiff & Vale Councils (fund delivery in Cardiff and the Vale)	There is a quarterly Steering Group for the whole Change that Lasts model that includes PCC and local authority representation. In addition, quarterly monitoring meetings are held with both Welsh Women's Aid (relating to the delivery of Change that Lasts across the South Wales police force area) and Safer Merthyr Tydfil (who deliver CLEAR) and written reports are received on a quarterly basis.	The programme facilitates men to identify their abusive tactics, take responsibility for them and learn new tools and strategies that can be used to promote a healthier relationship.	Earlier intervention to support behaviour change at an earlier opportunity, before these behaviours have become more deeply entrenched, and supporting the increased safety of intimate partners and their children.	Lower risk, lower harm perpetrators of domestic abuse, or those concerned about their attitudes or behaviours and their partners and families.
				Safety needs of victims provided by IDVA support as part of the model.	An evaluation of the Change that Lasts programme by the London Metropolitan University asserted that the feedback the CLEAR project received from both men and their partners suggests that it makes a "marked difference to their behaviour".
				Where appropriate, at the end of the programme, an additional session provides introductions to ongoing appropriate support or services.	In some cases, CLEAR can provide a front door to programmes/projects aimed at higher risk, higher harm perpetrators of abuse, where it is determined that the level of risk and harm is higher than the eligibility for CLEAR.
